..........November 16, 1891. CROSBY S. NOYES THE EVENING STAR has a regular and permanent circulation in Washington inrectimes larger than that of any other paper in the city. As a local NEWS paper and Advertising Medium it has no competitor The tests of the American armor at Indian Head last Saturday would seem to show that this country has profited greatly by the work of other nations in the line of making shotresisting sides for naval vessels. A year ago the navy was without a standard in this manufacture, and it bought three foreign plates, representing the best products of Europe, which it tested severely at Annapolis. Taking the best plate it has improved upon it and added to it the best-known American process of hardening and tempering, and thus it has evolved, through the competing efforts of private manufacturers, a series of plates that are pronounced even by foreigners to be superior to anything ever made abroad. There is a meaning hidden in this experience that cannot fail of strength when noted in connection with the bistory of the American navy in times when the country has needed a fighting force for either offensive or defensive warfare. Lagging a little behind the rest of the world in apparent progress, this country has been able to profit by the experiments and experiences of other powers, and, developing a national trait of daptation and improvement, the United States today stand ready to compete with Europe in any line of the manufacture of war material.

The agony of preserving the peace-an agony that costs untold millions of dollars in actual expenditure and draws fearfully upon the future, that stops the wheels of progress and staggers the best minds at the head of affairs-is still kept up in Europe with greater and greater tension. How much longer it can be endured no man can tell. All the signs point to an early conflict, but that has been the ase several times within the last dozen years. It has been supposed that the aggressive movement would come from Russia, as the power with the most to gain and least to lose by war, but the latest reports from London suggest that the time is approaching when the triple alliance will take the initiative and make demands of Russia with which she cannot comply. Just now she is weakened by famine and intestinal disorders. This may furnish the coveted opportunity, she having given occasion by her heavy massing of troops at the German and Austrian borders. It is supposed from outgivings of the German press that the people of Germany are restive and may exact of the government a formal explanation from Russia of her military movements or seize any one of several other pretexts for bringing affairs to a crisis. War in winter is not probable, although Napolean never flinched from snow and ice in carrying out or attempting to carry out his great designs.

The G. A. R. Veterans who contemplate attending the encampment at Washington have IF OUT OF Town not only early assurances of liberal treatment at the hands of landlords and railway men, but they have the guarantee of good treatment that a spirit of hearty welcome and sincere hospitality give. The invitation to the Grand Army was extended partly because of an honest patriotic ambition to be the host of the organization and not entirely as a stroke of purely business enterprise. With a body of men whose boast it might well be that they advanced their business interests to go to the defense of their country, it is not to be expected that money will be scattered with a lavish hand. Nobody thought it would be; or in any event any who expected it deserve disappointment. Every citizen should find a pleasure in contributing his share to the entertainment of the visitors and make it a personal object to protect them from the petty extortions which are customary in every city where there is a crowd of

The Episcopal Church Congress which assembles in this city tomorrow is a meeting of interest equal to any that has been held here in this year of notable gatherings at the national capital. A deliberative body of churchmen, it will debate many of the vital questions of the time not ordinarily discussed at church conferences. Indeed, the Church Congress is unique in that while it deliberates it does not legislate. In the congress more care is taken in the preparation of addresses than could be expected of the ordinary business councils of the church. More freedom is also altowable, both as to choice of subjects and manner of presenting them. The present congress will probably excel in interest any of its predecessors, for not only is the place chosen for bolding it the best possible, but the moment of time is propitious, teeming as it does with matters of high social, moral and spiritual interest.

In the season of thanksgiving the republic has every reason to be thankful. The God of the harvest has smiled upon the fields and prosperity has come in unexpected ways."
While faction and civil strife have wasted other lands this country has basked in the full light of peace. If there is not plenty in all our borders it is not due to lack of the beneficent sunshine and refreshing showers in their season. The citizen has gone about his duties with a feeling of profound security, and people and government in all the broad contines of the republic have performed their allotted tasks. Down in the bottom of the heart of every American citizen is the assurance that the government is the people's. They made it, they keep it alive. It is theirs to sustain so long as it answers the people's purposes. The Richmond Times is making the timely plea for the safety of the Virginia records that THE STAR has so often made for the safety of the United States records. Fire-proof buildings and greater care otherwise in keeping the public documents are indispensable if they are to be preserved. There ought not to be two opinions in such a matter.

Some of the statesmen who are ambitious for presidential honors should persuade their friends to keep them under shelter for a while longer. There may be several political frosts between now and next November.

Pittsburgh's intense solicitude concerning the rigid observation of Sunday may be in part the result of a laudable ambition to counterbalance the moral deficiencies that have developed in Philadelphia. Tammany is announced as retaining its status as an uncertain campaign factor. 'The Gentleman and the Tiger" may keep the public in suspense at several more elections. Congressman Reed is sharing public attention with the democratic majority in a manner that might easily be gratifying to any sense of vanity he may possess.

15 PER CENT REDUCTION IN COATS. 15 PER CENT REDUCTION IN CAPES. -FOR CASH.

Commencing Monday, November 16, and continuing Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, we will have a special sale of Coats and Capes, offering a reduction on these goods of 15 per cent FOR CASH. Why do we do this? This, you know, is our first season keeping these goods, and our sales on them through Oc tober and the first haif of November have exceeded our expectations, and we propose to make the above mentioned four days the banner days of the season in these goods, and thus, by giving the last half of November such a start, we will make the sales for the sec-ond month in this department greater than the first. Then, too, there are many lines which are broken in sizes, and these must go.

We show you below in figures what a reduction of 1: per cent will be, and when you also take into considera-tion we have been selling Coats and Capes all the sea-son less than our competitors, because we chose this this plan of introducing our department, you will realize what you will save by buying from us during our four days' sale.
